Hello Fool!

If you're reading this, then you're a Fool.

Quod erat demonstratum. You could look it up, you're online.

The Joker has made the leap-from analog to virtual, from printed to online, from paper to plastic, from sublime to ridiculous, and from soup to nuts-for numerous reasons, the most salient being money-moolah, cash, coin, cabbage, lucre, legal tender, scootie, simoleons, bread, bucks, dough, dinero-you know, the stuff from which, by tradition, we Fools are soon parted.

It costs an arm and a leg to deliver this precious pamphlet to profuse portals and even with King Kneezaparte and Kween Elbozen, we've finally run out of limbs. We also believe in embracing new technology by moving into the 21st Century, but for those Old Farts among us, you may also print this merry missive to pore over and peruse in solitary splendor while passing stools and emitting gas perched upon your personal porcelain pondering pedestal.

We'd also mail it to you if you so command, but you must contact us to let us know that is your wish, and it wouldn't hurt to cross our palm with silver. $19 per year will do nicely. PayPal: <http://www.foolsguild.org/Donate.htm>

Of course, you'd have to be a Fool to pay for what you can get for free, but we proved that in the first paragraph.

Dear Fools,

Looking back on the last 10 months I can truly say I've had a terrific time being King! Our membership is the highest they have been in years. Actually the numbers are low but the members are high. We have fulfilled our mission statement, "To" Do we have a mission statement? Oh, I think it's to have fun and we've done that. I know I've had great fun creating the first All- Color Jokers (and one black and white 'Nada Joker') and working with Heidi to upgrade the format of The Joker so it can be read online or downloaded to a printer. The Guild even has money in the bank, not much as of this writing, but neither have I spent any of it. But since a fool and his money are soon partying, here are some of the highs of the last year:

- >We started with a clothing exchange at Greenman Lodge, our usual huge success thanks to Rover and Cal and all the donations by fabulous fools.
- >Heidi and Joan Hotchkis kicked off our Mid-Century Party season with a Birthday Dinner at the incredible Encounters Restaurant at LAX.
- >King Neezaparte and Kueen Elbozen's Teen Hop rocked around the clock and cut loose at the Moose.
- >Roves to: The Pirate Movie; The Disney exhibit at Ronald Reagan's Library; Paula Re's Art exhibit at the Karpeles Museum in Santa Barbara.

The Fools Guild functions like a band on stilts - one step at a time, and if we don't fall on our face it's a good year - unless our face falls in a pie, and then it's an excellent year. You can see how hard it is to tell if we are doing well. Since we have no long-range goals, no purpose, except to enjoy one other's company and to have each a good time, by this measure the year has been a huge success. Your King is grateful for all of your help and support.

I would like to thank The Privy Council Members, you have contributed so much to our Guild. See you at the Feast of Fools,

Born This Way

To continue the story of your King, I'll pick up about twenty years ago after I'd made a formal declaration to never again attend a straight (hetero) party - they were just too boring for words! Never again would I subject myself to a mind-numbing, time-wasting straight party. Then a couple of gay friends invited me to a party and I assumed it was a gay party (Fools Paradise, Frivolous Wrex II Feast of Fools, tropical theme) so I was happy to attend. What I found populating that evening's costume party was a group of gays and straights, young and old, men and women not only in costume but also in character. They were all mad as hatters and having a wonderful time: they sang and danced; they did skits; and there was even a brass band on stilts. I was blown away by the entire experience. The evening topped off with a food fight with dinner rolls. "Madness," I thought to myself and then, "these are my people!"

Yes, this was my first Fools Guild Party and twenty years later I can now say with kingly pride

"You are my People."

Wim's Puppet Show

A true Christmas gift.

By Dino Demarco

In a time when hearing the words Puppet Show makes one think of furry googly-eyed Muppets, first-timers were surprised and delighted to find a show of beautifully-crafted marionettes in this, the third year of King Neezaparte's free front-porch production of "Christmas Wishes". Eager crowds of 150 or more gathered on a front lawn every night in December and when Christmas music filled the air, it signaled that a delightful puppet show was about to begin.

The first marionette, a jester named Fair Fellow, took his place sitting on a gaily-wrapped package and sang "We Need A Little Christmas" voiced by Shane Harper. Next came Marie Antoinette in a hooped gown of green satin and white lace and topped with a white powdered wig. Looking suspiciously like a Christmas tree, she struggled to sing "The Minute Waltz" in two and half minutes.

The Blue Fairy, a ballerina with large, sheer wings was lit from within with small blue lights so her dress and wings glowed and stage lights dimmed before she flew out into the cold night air looking like the Spirit of Christmas. She landed, on point, center stage and sang "The Christmas Waltz" voiced by Kristin Chenoweth, during which she flew off the stage into the audience and visited several children; adults report that the sight of this magical fairy meeting wide-eyed children brought tears..

Before the next puppet appeared, a small Time Out chair appeared on stage which got an "Ah! Oh!" from the kids. A scruffy little boy took his place in the chair and sang "I'm Getting' Nuttin' For Christmas" and then a little girl in a pinafore and pigtails sang "I Want A Hippopotamus For Christmas", followed by, yes, a hippopotamus in a tutu who struggled to dance "The Sugar Plum Fairy".

The final marionette was Suzy, an old fairy in a tutu too small for her, a baby-doll wig too young for her, and fuzzy purple slippers on big feet dangling at the end of skinny legs. With her wings askew and looking slightly perplexed, she sang about her loss of memory to the tune of "Memories" from the Cats. The Fools' own Paula Re voices this number, which filled the night air with rolls of laughter.

This magical event has become a tradition for many families, a real Christmas gift to Wim's friends and neighbors who showed up night after night to experience his unique show. One neighbor said, "I love coming to your show. It just makes me happy."

“SPRING TIME FOR FOOLS”

is our Feast Of Fools party on the last Saturday in March. If you have always wanted to perform and show off your talent but your act never seemed to fit into the theme of the party, the feast of fools will be YOUR time to shine.

King Neezaparte and Kueen Elbozen will be celebrating Spring and their Fools, that means YOU.

Come feast, dance, and entertain your fellow fools.

We can't wait to see you sing, act, tell jokes, play the ukulele, do a striptease, dance the hoochi-koo, perform magic, or just take a pie in the face. Please.
