Invitation to Folly –

You are hereby invited to peruse and enjoy The Joker, but be forewarned that reading this very invitation now qualifies you as a Fool!

“Who, Me?” You might say. “Yes, You!” Comes the inevitable rejoinder. If you enjoy a good laugh, if you’re willing to be the butt of a joke, if you don a costume whenever possible, if telling the truth to power tickles your funny-bone, if you’re inspired to sing and dance when nobody else hears the music, or even if none of the above applies to you, You are most definitely a Fool. (As is everyone to some extent, but some of us are not loath to admit it.)

Now that we have that settled, we bid you again welcome and invite you to fascinating fêtes and foolish frolics!

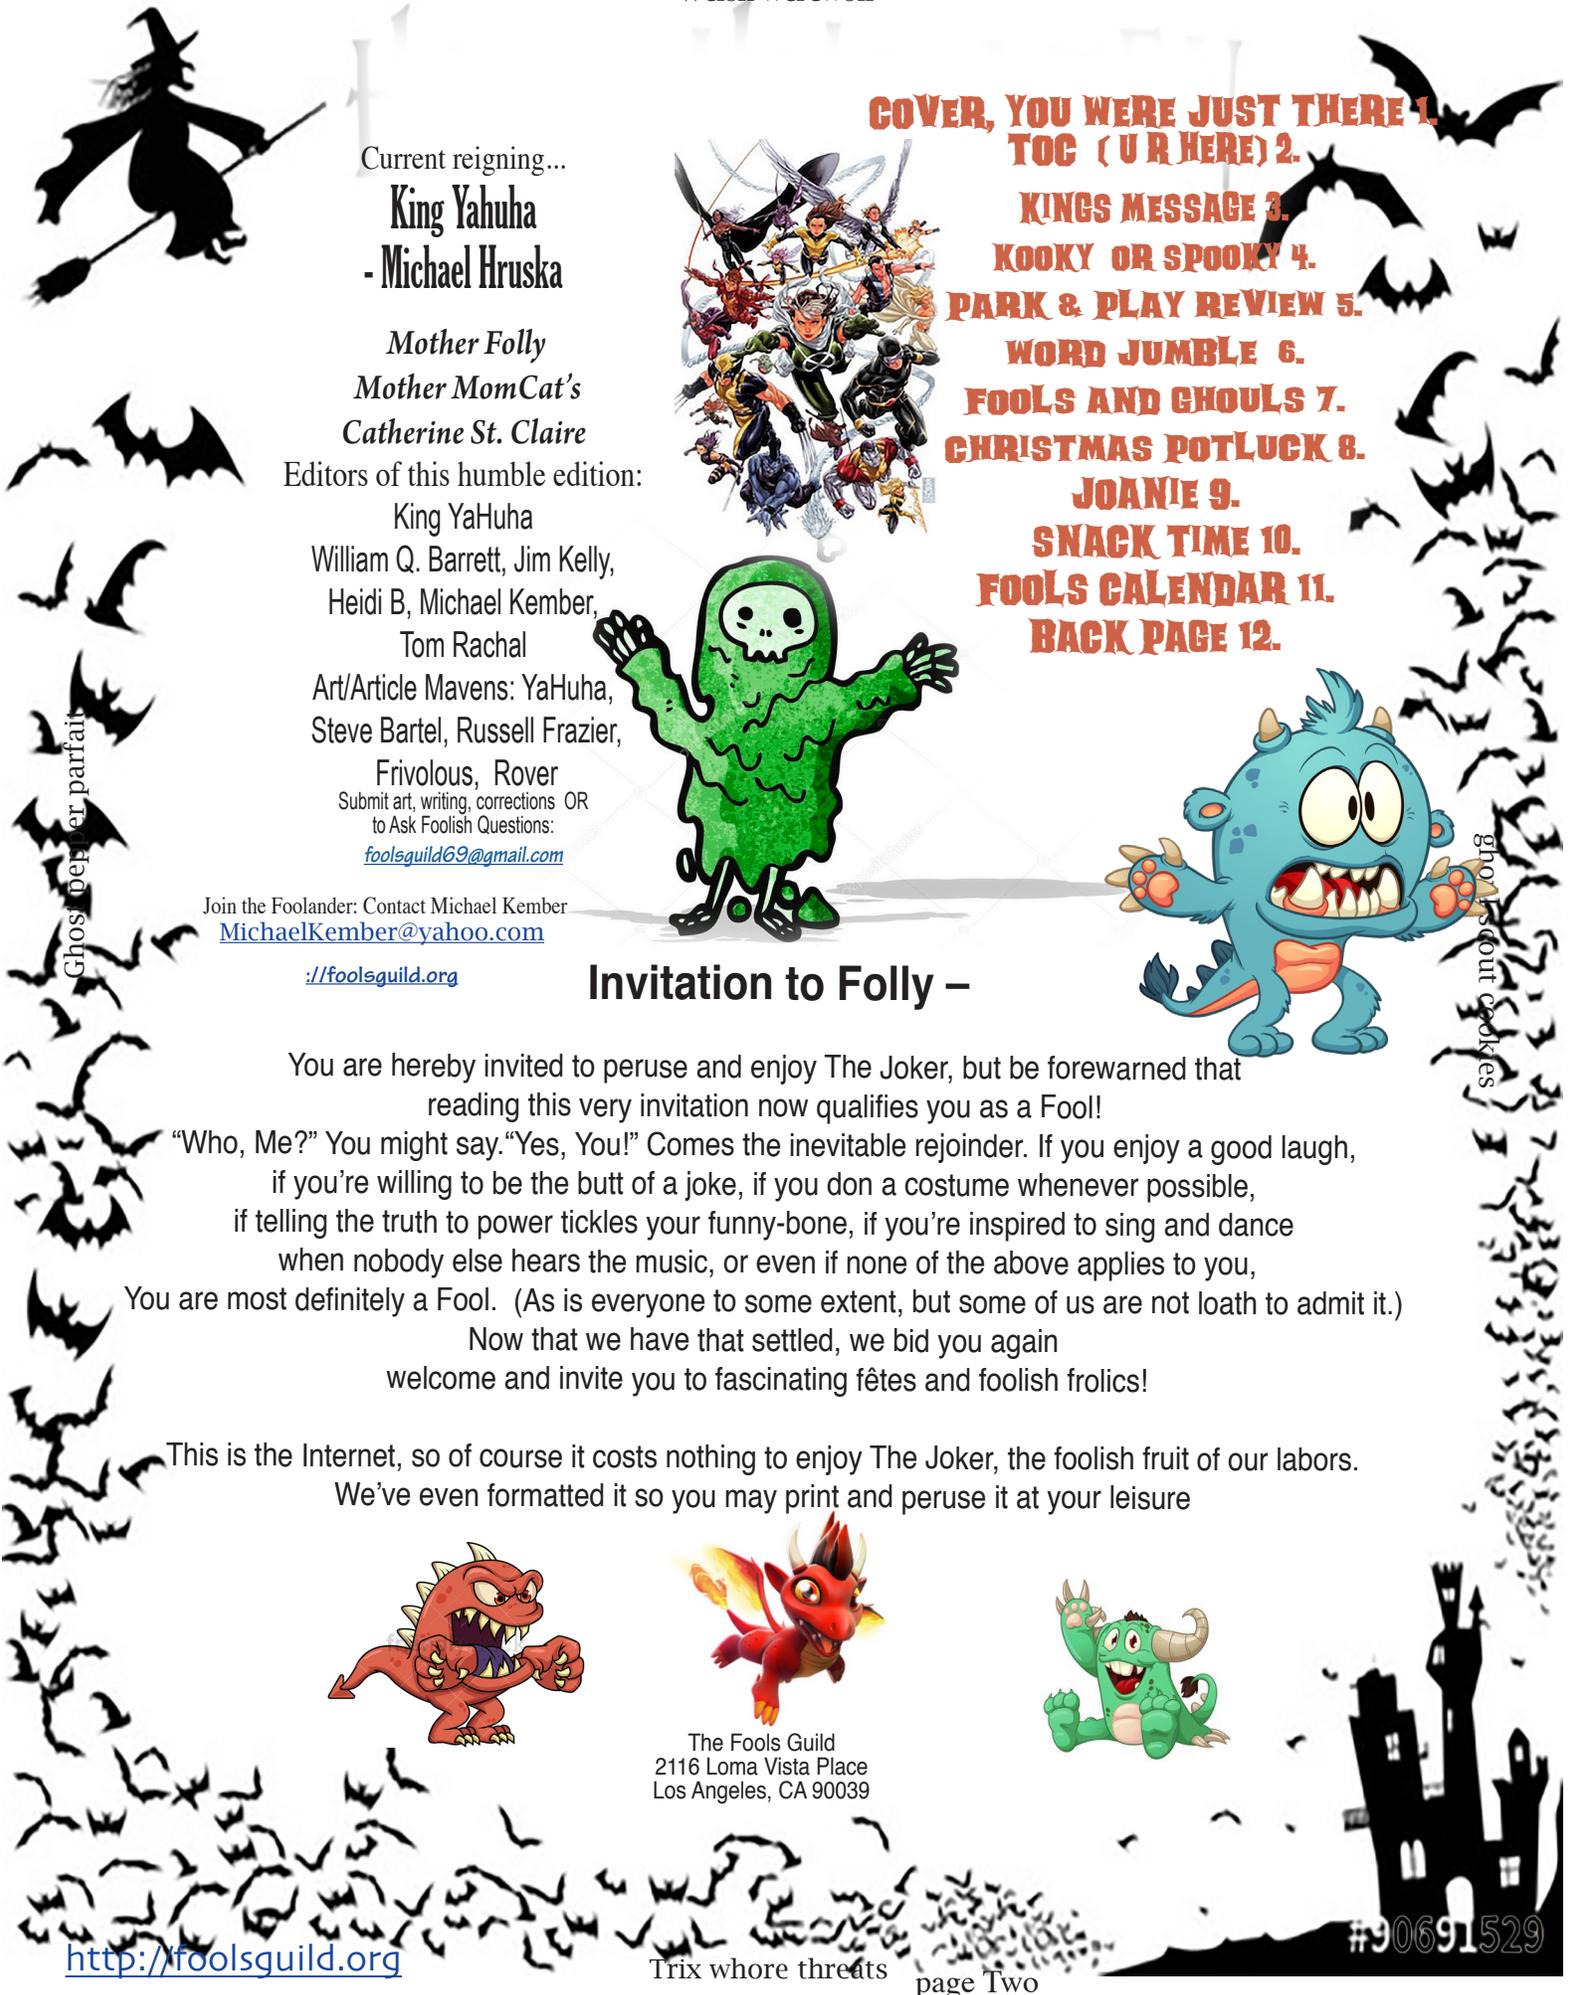

This is the Internet, so of course it costs nothing to enjoy The Joker, the foolish fruit of our labors. We’ve even formatted it so you may print and peruse it at your leisure

“NOOOOOOOOOOO!”

Or,

“On Becoming King of Fools”

It was a dark and stormy night. Actually, it was only a little chilly, and hey, it was night, so...Duh! But it had been a long day. Up early as usual, eight hours of work, home to feed the cat and do some housework, because Hey!, Quartermaster was coming over that night for rehearsal, and that meant two hours of hard singing. So when I noticed the top-hat, I was already semi-exhausted, and was kinda' praying for rehearsal to be over so I could Go To Bed!

That top-hat. It was sitting on Ken Collins' (aka - King Archivus) head. Not only that, but it was accompanied by a frock coat on Archivus's body and as this registered in my semi-functioning mind it dawned on me... Ken is in my living room! What's he doing here?

The training in being a civil and polite human that my Mother had instilled in me kicked in, so I went to Ken and said, "Ken, what are you doing in my living room?" And then I hugged him, 'cause that's what I do. He replied, "I knew James would be here rehearsing" (James Hendricks, aka Capt. Salty, leader of Quartermaster and Ex-Rex or former King of Fools), "and I dropped in because I've got some business with him, and I was in the neighborhood. But I have something for you too!" And without further ado he ushered me to my front door. I hadn't even time to think "WTF?" when Ken reached over, threw open my door...

Funnel

“WE’RE NOT WORTHY! WE’RE NOT WORTHY! HAIL KING HUHA!”

And to my complete surprise, a dozen Ex-Rexes crowded around yelling this at me. Two things then happened in very quick succession: first, I realized that I'd been chosen as the next King of Fools, and this was their ever-so-gentle way of informing me; and second, my hands covered my mouth in vain attempt to stifle the Wail of “NOOOOOOOOO!” that now came uncontrollably out of my mouth. Cal Smith, ever loyal friend, caught me before I hit the floor, and from there it gets a bit fuzzy.

It wasn't a complete surprise... Ex-Rex's had been telling me for years that I was on the short list. Hell, I'd even decided that I wanted “YaHuha” as my name, if it ever happened because I thought it was kinda “up” and celebratory. But dear Foolish Reader, it Was a Surprise... and a shock... and honestly one of the coolest things that's ever happened to me. (These Ex-Rexes are sneaky! James had been in on it the whole time! No wonder he wouldn't leave!)

Even so, I considered saying no! After all, it meant that my life would change drastically for an entire year! But I knew I wouldn't. I couldn't! I Love all these people at my door, I Love the Fools Guild. So get off my porch you screaming lunatics and get inside before the neighbors call the cops! In they came, offering congratulations and condolences, often in the same breath! There was no food, there weren't any drinks, but we had a joyful party nonetheless. Talk soon turned to “Hey, you now have have a coronation to plan! How will you be discovered?” “Are there any Snacks?” (Little did I know that Snacks were soon to become very important! More on that later!) By the time everyone had left, my head was already full of things to do, OMGs, WTFs, this isn't happening, yes it is...

But I gotta tell ya... I hadn't been that happy or felt that loved in a long time. I pray I can do you all proud, and with your help have some great Fun this year.

And that my Friends, is how you find out, that you are King Of The Fools!

A GHOUL OR A FOOL, WHO SHOULD I BE?
WHICH OF THESE TWO BEST REPRESENTS ME?
COME AS A VAMPIRE TO FEAST UPON GORE,
OR MAYBE A ZANY WITH CAPERS GALORE?
MIGHT I MAKE MIRTH, MADCAP AND MERRY
OR LURK IN THE SHADOWS, SINISTER, SCARY?

SHOULD I BRING REVELRY, SPIRITS TO BRIGHTEN
OR MANIFEST EVIL INTENDING TO FRIGHTEN?
WHICH OF THESE FACETS OF LIFE SHOULD I FEATURE,
A FABULOUS FOOL OR SOME HIDEOUS CREATURE?
I KNOW WHO I AM AND WHAT I SHALL DO
AND COME HALLOWEEN, I'LL FIND OUT ABOUT YOU.

Park & Play: Party Review!

8/18/18 was a beautiful, warm day to celebrate foolishness in grand, historic Griffith Park! An elaborate pot-luck picnic fed about 30 souls. King Yahuha, officiating at the first official event of his reign, did a damn fine job of not only decorating but also providing Jenga and “corn-hole” (tee-hee!) games for our amusement. Funny though, Fools seem content to just chill these days—we were perfectly happy chatting and picnicking.

As the sun started to set we hiked up to the Old Zoo, where Free Shakespeare in the Park had set up a stage platform. We settled onto our blankets with plenty of snacks. First there was a parade of fairies—Yes, fairies! Much to our delight, kids dressed as fairies paraded onto the stage. We hadn’t heard this was “dress like a fairy” night; but our own Jim Kelly, to no one’s surprise, happened to be dressed like a fairy, so he joined the kids onstage, dancing and flapping his wings like a boss, showing the kids how the pro’s do it.

Then Shakespeare’s “A Midsummer Night’s Dream” unfolded onstage—a highly entertaining production in modern dress with a fun multi-racial cast. We loved the show despite a few minor criticisms. Is it just me, or does Shakespeare benefit from some judicious TRIMMING? Ha ha, yeah, of course I’d think that.

A terrifically fun, easy, and well-planned event, with plenty of SNACKS. Thanks, o glorious King Yahuha! More! More! —Rover

Ms Hotchkis was ready for good things to happen
When Joanie sat up in her bed,
Joan then decided she'd finished with napping
And She would go out now instead.

Ms Hotchkis arrayed in her finest apparel
Then Joanie accessories chose;
Joan wore stilettos in spite of their peril
For She thought they went well with her hose.

Ms Hotchkis wore scarlet wherever she wandered
Where Joanie was easily seen.
Joan, in sartorial splendor responded,
"Might She not look better in green?"

Ms Hotchkis exclaimed that, "Red is for passion!"
While Joanie concurred and said, "Yes,
Incarnadine Joan, what a model of fashion!
She always looked good in that dress."

It's Always Snack Time Somewhere

If you are anxious or in a bad mood

I know you'll feel better ingesting some food.

When your view that was blue starts turning to black

It's probably time that you stop for a snack.

Now I'm not suggesting some healthful nutrition

To help you in healing your doleful condition

But something that's crunchy and salty and sinful,

Something that you could consume by the bin full.

Club Sand-Witch

When all's gone awry with all of your plans

Stop what you're doing and eat with your hands,

For nothing goes better with nuts or with chips

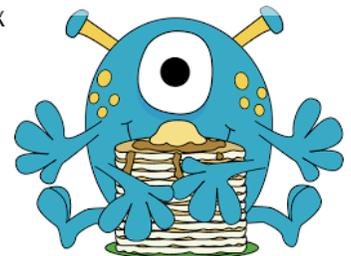

Than co-operation of fingers and lips.

I know you'll be happier after a snack

For then your good humor will start coming back

It's good for your soul, you cannot deny it

Next time you're down, go ahead, try it!
